AAH IS LEADING THE WAY WITH NHS HOSPITAL E-PROCUREMENT CHANGES

The Scan4Safety initiative is designed to improve the safety and efficiency of the NHS and help drive the £1bn savings target. As part of this initiative the Department of Health requires all NHS suppliers to be PEPPOL registered by 31st March 2018. NHS suppliers will need to adhere to the Scan4Safety deadline.

As part of AAH's offering, NHS Trusts can access a free ordering system called Medecator. Medecator will also need to be registered as a PEPPOL access point as it transacts orders on behalf of the NHS.

We have partnered with Pagero, a certified PEPPOL access point provider, to ensure that all customers who use Medecator can continue to trade and be compliant with Scan4Safety.

Be assured it's in hand. We are ticking all the boxes for the Scan4Safety initiative

- ✓ AAH has registered with a certified PEPPOL access point
- ✓ Medecator is a PEPPOL access point, powered by Pagero
- ✓ Medecator will continue to be a strong service provider to the NHS

WHAT IS PEPPOL?

PEPPOL is a messaging standard. It allows the NHS and its suppliers to send and receive orders, order responses, ASNs and invoices electronically in a standardised format. This is a much more effective way of doing business, which enables greater visibility and cost efficiencies.

WHAT IS GS1?

GS1 sets standards for the unique identification of every person, every product and every place in the healthcare industry. As part of the Scan4Safety initiative, suppliers must use GS1 barcodes on all their products.

AAH will work with you to maximise the benefits of adopting the Scan4Safety initiative.

You can be confident we're:

- Adhering to all deadlines linked to the Scan4Safety initiative
- Continuing to provide Medecator free of charge to NHS Hospitals
- Ensuring that you can continue to use Medecator the way you are today

What do you need to do next?

- There is nothing for you to do today
- We will keep you informed during 2018 as and when the Scan4Safety initiative develops
- For more information contact your Hospital Account Manager

WE WILL KEEP YOU UPDATED AS SCAN4SAFETY DEVELOPS OVER 2018
